

ON-DEMAND WEBINAR SERIES

Emotional Intelligence

A: What EQ is and Why it Matters

B: Can You Improve Your Emotional Intelligence?

Description:

Stacey Holloway,
BScN

We've had so many requests for this webinar, we're happy to announce it's finally here! Over the years, emotional intelligence—also known as EQ—has evolved into a must-have skill, not only in your personal life and relationships, but as a predictor of high performance on the job. And hiring managers have taken notice: the research shows that employers say they value EQ over IQ, and that employees with high emotional intelligence are more likely to stay calm under pressure, resolve conflict effectively, and respond to patients, co-workers and patient/clients more appropriately. We are equally excited to announce that one of our highest-rated speakers, Stacey Holloway will be teaching this two part series. So whether you are on the front lines, in a support role, or are a manager yourself, and/or want to improve your personal relationships, you'll want to join us for this indispensable webinar!

Includes (For Each Part):

- 2 hours of Continuing Education
