ON-DEMAND WEBINAR

Pharmacotherapy in the Management of Obesity

Dr. Shahebina Walji,
MD, CCFP

Description

There has rarely been as much attention on a medication as Ozempic™ has had the past few years. It comes up regularly in even casual discussions of weight loss and has often dominated discourse on obesity and weight management as consumer demand for the medication has ramped up. Yet what is often missed, is the complete picture and understanding of what currently available medications are best suited to which patients, and why. In addition, these medications are sometimes prescribed without a complete plan of care. Join us and Shahebina Walji, MD, CCFP Medical Director of the Calgary Weight Management Centre for a comprehensive review of the biology of appetite and body weight regulation, an overview of the most recent Canadian Clinical Practice Guidelines for the Management of Obesity, and learn how to introduce the 5A's of Obesity Management Framework to initiate a discussion about obesity and formulate a treatment plan with patients. We'll also review the recommendations for the use of the current medications available for weight management and discuss the safety and efficacy of approved obesity management medications.
